

Boral Marulan South Operations Newsletter

June 2016

Boral's Marulan South Operations are pleased to present our regular newsletter for the information of our valued neighbours and wider community.

Making Peppertree proud

The Peppertree Quarry has been given a makeover during March and April.

This has included the removal of scrap metal left over from construction, and the reshaping of embankments which have now been 'hydro mulched'.

The workshop has undergone a transformation with new racking, shelving and dedicated workspaces for 'hot' works.

Granodiorite is also great for the construction of rock walls. Peppertree now has a formal viewing platform overlooking the pit, at which both the Australian and Aboriginal flags are being flown, and new dramatic entrances.

Communications

Working on a site that operates 24 hours per day, seven days per week offers a number of challenges in keeping everybody informed as to what is happening.

A number of TV screens have been installed to provide weekly updates and keep people informed.

A touchscreen TV has also been installed. With just a few touches of the screen, all staff can find and print critical documents such as safe work method statements (SWMS) or checklists.

EPA Board Visit

On 4 April, our Marulan South Operations hosted the Board and several regional managers from the Environment Protection Authority (EPA).

The visitors were interested in the management of the quarry and the supply of products into the Sydney construction market.

Tallong Apple Day 2016

Boral was happy to support another successful Tallong Apple Day on 1 May.

With cooking demonstrations by Chefs from the Hyatt Canberra, apple pie eating competitions, rides and stalls, there was plenty for all to do.

Congratulations to the hard working committee and the volunteers for your success.

Peppertree Modification 4

The exhibition of the Peppertree modification has now closed and we have received feedback from the Department of Planning as a result.

Thank you to everyone who took the time to comment. We will take on board and review all concerns raised and report back to the Department over the next month or so.

The separate planning application for continued operation of the Marulan South Limestone site remains under development. We will advise everyone when the application is ready to lodge.
